MR. BONNER AND THE LEDGER.

LEDGER OFFICE, New-York August 15, 1856.
Friend Roys: In reply to yours of the 12th, I would research what I once before stated, namely, that I will never do so, thing to interfere with your trade.

Robbert Bonner.

On the above and other similar assurances from Mr. Bonner, bis friend Roys made the Ledger a prominent feature of his trade. Bering the month of January, 1864, his weakly sales varied from Dering the month of January, 1864, his weakly sales varied from Dering the worth of the received through adears. H. Dexter & Co of New-York, and paid for every week, as agreed. The 1st of February, 1869, on taking possession of a larger store, a portion of which he had atted up expressly for the wholesale newspaper trade, Mr. Bouner's friend Roys revised his wholesale prices, as d issued a new circular to the trade, in which the nedger was placed first on the list, and was offered at the least advance over New-York cost.

placed first on the list, and was offered at the least advance over New York cost.

On the 7th of February, without any notice to Mr. Bonner's friend Reys, a rivel news-dealer received the 1,700 Ledgers in adactition to his regular number, and on the 8th Mr. Bonner's friend Roys received a line from H. Dexter & Co., stating hat Mr. Bonner had notified them not to send say Ledgers to A. J. Roys of Detroit. The result is, that Mr. Bonner's friend Roys, not being withing to pay a rival concern twenty-five cents per hundred more than his worn wholesale price had been after applying for reddress and receiving in return a most insulting letter, and after learning that he had no legal remedy, having sepended upon Mr. Bonner's word, without a written contract, decided that he would sell no more of Mr. Bonner's Ledgers unless he could bedealt with fairly.

all others ever offered to the public. THE CHAMPION SKIRT

JOBBERS are requested to band in their orders early, to secure the goods, as my large stock and daily productions will not meet the demand without increasing the manufacture, which I am doing daily, hoping to hill all orders with promptness and dispatch.
